Ellis Truck Company Begins Moving Here

Workmen Busy Completing Headquarters

Temporary Offices Set Up Awaiting Completion of Work

The Ellis Trucking Company yesterday started moving its headquarters from Marion, Ky., to Harrisburg, and employees today declared it was anticipated that the move would be complete by the first of September.

Workmen are busy completing the building the terminal will occupy. It is the new concrete structure on the north side of Route 45 near the SEIEC garage, being constructed by J. Cecil Sullivan and F. M. "Pat" Sullivan.

Concrete workers, plumbers, carpenters and heating specialists all were busy on the building yesterday getting it ready for occupancy as soon as possible.

Temporary Headquarters
With the building not completed, temporary headquarters have been set up in a large room of Southern Motors, housed in the Lewis building across Route 45 adjacent to the Triangle service station and cafe. There the dispatching is being done.

Already here are Charles Snyder, terminal manager, Howard Dunn, safety engineer, Clifton Winders, in charge of maintenance, Gordon Escue, mechanic's helper, all attached to the terminal here, and a number of the truck drivers.

C. C. Caylor, general manager of the Ellis Trucking Company, was expected in the city today. It was Caylor who negotiated the deal with the Harrisburg Junior Chamber of Commerce and the Sullivan to move the terminal from Marion, Ky., to this city.

Snyder, the terminal manager, said that approximately 15 Ellis employees already have moved into this area and more will follow. A few drivers, he said, indicated they will continue to keep their homes in Marion.

Snyder estimated that 10 or 12 employees are already living in Harrisburg, two have moved to Eldorado and one is living in Carleer Mills.

Thus Harrisburg now is the in-between terminal on the Ellis run from Indianapolis to Memphis. All the freight goes straight through from one city to the other, and no warehouses are needed along the way.

The Jaycees, in competition with other cities, completed negotiations with Caylor June 30 for the headquarters to be moved here. The company is leasing 4.36 acres of ground on which is the concrete masonry building containing 2,600 feet of floor space. The contract contains an option to buy.

The terminal, when the moving job is completed, will have 12 employees. Sixty-four drivers are employed on the run.

Issue Three Oil Drilling Permits
Two permits for oil operations in Eldorado township and one for Raleigh township were issued this week at Springfield.

C. E. Brehm of Mt. Vernon has the permit for the Emma Asbrock Community No. 1, to be drilled to the McClosky in the SE corner of the NW quarter of Section 17, Township 8S-7E (Eldorado).

A permit went to W. P. Ford of Benton for the Farris et al Community No. 1, to the McClosky in the NE corner of the SW quarter of the NW quarter of Section 22, 8S-6E.

The Raleigh township permit went to the Slagter Producing Co. of Evansville for the Wesley No. 1, to the McClosky in the SE corner of the NW quarter of the NW quarter of Section 22, 8S-6E.

Defense Official Says Chinese Want UN Seat as Price for Freeing Pilots

WASHINGTON (AP)—A defense official said today the Chinese Reds are demanding a seat in the United Nations as their price for the release of 15 U. S. Air Force flyers being held as "political prisoners."

The official disclosed that negotiations have been conducted through "third parties" during the past year for the release of the airmen and other Americans being held by the Reds. He said the Communist position, in effect, has been: "Admit us to the United Nations, and we will release your men."

President Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles repeatedly have voiced this country's opposition to seating the Reds in the world organization. The United States has refused diplomatic recognition to the Peiping regime.

Meanwhile, it was learned that the Reds may be holding a few more American Korean war prisoners in addition to the 15 unpatriated airmen.

Of 526 missing Americans still unaccounted for by the Communists, evidence has been received indicating a "very, very small number" may still be alive and in the hands of the Communists. The evidence has been in the form of letters, Red propaganda broadcasts and intelligence information.

Defense officials declined to give any precise figure on how many Americans may still be in Communist hands. They are convinced that most of the 526 Americans once believed in Communist captivity are now dead.

In the face of the Communist demand for admission to the U. N., defense and diplomatic officials admit they have little bargaining power except repeated demands for release of the Americans. As one official involved in the negotiations put it: "Our only choice is to keep talking or start fighting."

Council Accepts $92,574 Bid by Barter to Build Lake Harrisburg

The Harrisburg city council yesterday voted unanimously to accept the Lake Harrisburg bid of $92,574.90 of the J. D. Barter Construction Co. and to award him the contract to build the lake that will give the community a water supply that is ample.

The action came at a meeting of the council that had been adjourned Tuesday morning until 1 p. m. Thursday. The adjournment was taken so that the engineers could get state approval of the B plan for the lake, upon which Barter was low. The B plan will save approximately $11,000 over the original A plan of building the lake.

R. R. Brown, one of the lake engineers, said that Barter expected to start on the big project next week although there are two parcels of land in the water area yet unsecured. He said Barter already had signed a contract for the clearing of the land in the water area and this probably will take about three weeks when started.

One of the first jobs Barter will do, Brown stated, will be to raise a bridge in the lake area.

Brown said that the Sanitary Water board of the State of Illinois has been insisting that the city do something about had Bankston creek water which flows into Middle Fork about 3,000 feet above the reservoir pumping station and this situation was discussed.

Until Bankston creek is flushed by considerable rainfall, impurities from the mines in its watershed flow down with the water and make it undesirable for use. After the flushing, the water is all right, but it means that water has not been good enough to pump into the reservoirs until after a lot of it already has gone on down the stream.

Also discussed was a small dam across Middle Fork to keep Lake Harrisburg water from going on downstream when it is loosed from the lake into the creek.

To Study Cost Further
One proposal, which has not gone into very far yet, Brown said, would be to place a dam to prevent Bankston creek water from entering Middle Fork at the present confluence, rechannel the stream southward from the confluence, letting it run parallel with Middle Fork a short distance to the west and enter Middle Fork near the pumping station.

To get the good Middle Fork water, he said, a small dam could be erected on Middle Fork just north of where Bankston enters it and a 60 or 72 inch pipe could be run from the pumping station to just north of the dam.

Brown said he believed the job could be done for $10,000 or $11,000, the amount saved on the B plan bid, but that he would have to delve further into the matter to obtain a near-accurate figure.

Big Business Favored by GOP: Mitchell

Democratic National Chairman Speaks Here at Court House

Stephen A. Mitchell, chairman of the Democratic National committee, predicted a trend back to the Democratic party in the elections in November, in an address before a large crowd at the court house last night for a district Democratic meeting.

The American people know now that this Administration has not been concerned with all the people equally, Mitchell stated.

"Now we have seen 19 months of legislation and administrative policies biased in favor of Big Business. That this should be so grows out of the very nature of the Republican party—out of its history and its traditions."

Mitchell pointed out that during the administration of Franklin D. Roosevelt and Harry Truman, men who understood the viewpoints and the needs of farmers, working men and small business men found a welcome at the White House.

Attacks Republican Record
"Now, this whole course has been reversed and the partnership between Big Business and the Government is restored once more," Mitchell stated.

For 20 years, Mitchell said, the Republicans damned the New Deal and the Fair Deal of Roosevelt and Truman—circulating the myth that the Democratic party was against business.

"But at the end of those 20 years there were more private businesses, with greater production, more employees and higher profits than ever before in history."

In an attack on the Republican record, Mitchell pointed to some of the measures the Republicans have passed. First, he pointed to the Republican tax bill which gives extensive tax relief to corporations and their shareholders—and virtually none to the vast majority of taxpayers.

He charged the Republicans with stifling the growth of TVA and REA at the behest of the private power industry.

Blits Dixon-Yates Contract
He pointed to the "mighty strange case" of the Dixon-Yates private power contract and pointed to facts that make the contract a scandal of the first order:

"The contract was ordered let without specifications and without competitive bidding. Another syndicate that was preparing to bid for the job at $90 million less was shut out of the bidding. The TVA was forbidden to supply the power—at a savings to the taxpayers of $140 million.

"The government guaranteed to buy the entire output of the plant

Vienna Man is Demo Candidate For State Senate

The Democratic party now has a candidate for state senator from the 51st senatorial district, it was revealed last night at the Democratic rally at the court house.

He is Edward Merchant, 27, of Vienna, who was introduced by State Representative Paul Powell, also of Vienna.

There was no name on the Democratic ballot for state senator at the April primary but the law provides that the senatorial committee could meet and certify a name for the office on the November general election ballot.

He will oppose Glen O. Jones of Raleigh, the Republican nominee. Merchant was nominated by the Democratic Senatorial committee of the 51st district.

He was born in Grand Chain in 1927 where he attended both grade and high schools. He was graduated from the U. S. Maritime Training Station at Sheepshead Bay, New York City, in November, 1945, and sailed with the Merchant Marine until 1947.

He is married to the former Miss Myrtle Jane Pittman, of Olmstead, Ill., and they have two children. In 1951 he was employed by the Ebasco Service, Inc., at Joppa, and is presently employed with the Bechtel Corporation as chief job steward.

Eisenhower Warm, Cordial With Meek, But Fails to Recommend Him in Speech

By MERRIMAN SMITH
United Press White House Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower will work for Republican candidates across the nation this fall in direct ratio to their loyalty to his policies.

The chief executive made this clear Thursday in Springfield, Ill., where he appeared on the same platform with Joseph T. Meek, the Republican who is running against Sen. Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill). Meek in campaign speeches has differed quite plainly with Mr. Eisenhower on some questions of policy.

The President was warm and cordial in his public handshake with Meek at "Republican Day" ceremonies at the Illinois State Fair. But in his speech—rapping the Democrats for forecasting a depression—Mr. Eisenhower did not recommend Meek by name. Instead, he used an oblique approach to an audience of over 20,000.

He suggested that to protect the record of the currently GOP-controlled Congress and march on toward "a steady, sound prosperity," the Illinois voters might find it "a good thing to increase the size of the delegation that you send from Lincoln's party to Washington."

"I must tell you one thing," the President added. "Some months ago I pledged that never again as long as I was President would I meet privately or publicly with anyone and make a statement for publication, unless I insisted that I wanted every bit of help I could get in enacting that program: To make America strong for you and for our children."

Heavy Appointment List
Mr. Eisenhower scheduled a jam-packed "getaway" list of appointments at the White House today, preparatory to his departure for summer White House headquarters at Denver, Colo., Saturday morning.

His day began at a breakfast with Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland and included lunch with House Speaker Joseph W. Martin Jr.

Under the present plans, on Monday night from Denver, the President will point with pride for beneficiaries of a nationwide radio and television audience to the record of Congress this year.

His Monday night appearance will be in the Special Methodist Service Aug. 29 For Pledge 'Victory'

Harrisburg Methodists have set Sunday, Aug. 29, as Victory Day in recognition of the 52nd Sunday since commencing collection of the church pledges made toward the new building project now in progress.

During the first year, members have paid in almost one third of the total pledged amount of $251,000.

H. E. Jones, chairman of the Campaign Continuation committee, has announced that a goal of $100,000 given in the first year has been set. In order to achieve this mark, with only two Sundays remaining in the pledge year, all are being urged to make sure their pledge is paid up to date.

A special service is being planned for Sunday morning, Aug. 29, with the Sunday school and morning worship combined. Reports will be given that morning by various committees on the progress of the overall program. A hundred per cent attendance is also being sought, that all members may be a part of the Victory Day service.

so-called informal technique on TV, a format he used for the first time last spring.

Base Of Operations
Denver will not be a vacation paradise nearly as much as it will be a base of operations for the President. He will make a number of campaign trips out of Denver in support of his program and the candidates who support it. Mr. Eisenhower probably will not return to Washington before Oct. 10, except for his Aug. 30 appearance here before the American Legion convention.

In Springfield Thursday, Mr. Eisenhower's obvious target was Douglas, who has long held that administration policies are leading the nation into an economic downturn.

The President blasted at "prophecies of gloom and doom" who forecast "a great inflation" due to the removal of price controls.

"Others then started to preaching depression," he said. "Every time we turned around we were all going to be in the poor house. Something has gone wrong with their calculations."

Ray's Drug Store Is Burglarized
Ray's drug store, operated by C. Ray Moore on South Main street, was burglarized last night by thieves who took approximately $200, officers reported today.

The burglary occurred some time after 11 p. m., it was stated. Entrance was gained by tearing a screen from a transom and going through the transom. The thieves departed through a back door which they opened.

One hundred fifty dollars was taken from a cash box and $50 from a cash register, it was reported. Nothing else was missing.

Discover Case of Rabies
Rabies were discovered in the brain of a dog belonging to Harrisburg residents in an examination made Tuesday of this week at the Carbondale State hospital, it was revealed today by Dr. James H. Wells, head of the Egyptian Health department.

Because of this disclosure six people are now taking preventative treatment because they handled the dog during its illness.

It is the advice of the Egyptian Health department that no one handle a sick animal until that animal has had a thorough examination by a veterinarian. Also, families with pets should and are urged to see that these animals are inoculated.

It was learned that the animal, a bird dog, had been brought here recently from Kentucky by its owner and had been kept in a pen. The illness was diagnosed as "dumb" rabies.

The Harrisburg Humane society announced today that it will sponsor another rabies vaccination clinic at the Humane shelter from 5 to 7 p. m. Monday.

Guy Price Receives Stab Wound
Guy Price of this city received treatment yesterday afternoon for a stab wound near the stomach received in an incident on the west side of the square. Price was released by the physician after treatment and was up and about this morning. No charges had been filed at noon today by authorities, who are investigating the incident.

Administration Rate Boost Bill Rejected

Adjournment of Congress Expected Late Today or Tonight

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate, ignoring administration protests, passed and sent to the House today a bill to grant a 5 per cent pay raise to all postal and classified Civil Service workers.

The vote was 69-4. Approval came after the Senate rejected, 55-16, an administration attempt to substitute a bill combining a smaller pay increase with a rise in postal rates.

The postal pay issue was one of the last two major obstacles in the way of congressional adjournment, expected late today or tonight.

The House has approved a 7 per cent pay raise for postal employees only.

Unless the House accepts the Senate version, the two differing bills will be sent to conference to resolve the difference.

Indicates Veto
Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland indicated President Eisenhower would veto any pay raise bill that does not provide a hike in postal rates.

"I do not believe it will become law," Knowland told the Senate after his amendment was defeated.

The Senate measure covers an estimated one million classified workers and 500,000 postal employees. It provides a minimum raise of $200 a year for each postal employee and a $170 minimum for other federal employees covered by the act. It sets a maximum increase of $440 for any employee.

The House bill would provide a $240 minimum raise for postal workers and a $480 maximum.

Both the House and Senate bills provide for a commission to study and make recommendations on a revised system of classifying postal workers.

Agree to Expand Social Security
A Senate-House conference committee cleared the way for congressional adjournment late today or tonight by agreeing on a bill to expand social security.

Social security was the last "must" measure on the administration's legislative program.

The Senate and House are expected to approve with little or no delay the report of their conferees.

The conference committee reached agreement shortly after Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland (Calif.) conferred at

Ike and Farm Supports

Editorial — BY BRUCE BLOSSAT
When the history of President Eisenhower's first two years of office is written, it may well be that his successful campaign for flexible farm price supports will go down as his most impressive act of domestic statesmanship.

Nor can his strong right arm, Secretary of Agriculture Benson, be forgotten in reciting this performance. In his two years in the capital, Benson has become a symbol of resistance to narrow, selfish pressures, in the services of the nation's larger interests.

All efforts in the powerful Senate to continue rigid price supports on key staple crops were beaten down by the President's lieutenants and backers. Now the principle of flexibility has been endorsed by both houses, and the way has been opened for a saner farm policy.

Clearly Mr. Eisenhower did not get all he wanted. His original demand was for supports ranging from 75 to 90 per cent of parity. As approved by both houses, the new plan limits the range from 82½ to 90 per cent.

Yet few Presidents get everything they ask for, either in particular measures or overall. It is part of the art of government to know when to take less, and to know how much less can be taken without compromising your objectives.

The President, Benson and others concerned are convinced that the 82½ to 90 per cent spread is sufficient to give the flexible plan a real trial. They obviously believe that once the program is established it will be easier later to extend the range, especially if dire political consequences do not follow this first move.

While the praise is being passed around, one should not overlook those senators and congressmen who stood with the President in this test of statesmanship. It took nerve in a political year to dare what many feel will be the wrath of outraged farmers.

The stalwarts were not too numerous in the Senate. The final vote on the farm bill was 62 to 28, but the tell-tale vote was an earlier 49 to 44 tally by which the flexible program was substituted for high, rigid supports.

Some lawmakers may have been impressed by mounting evidence that Benson's persistent educational campaign with the farmers is beginning to bear fruit. Others may simply have been unable to duck the fact that adherence to high supports meant continuance of ruinous farm surpluses at staggering cost to the country.

Whatever the motives and the reasoning, the important thing is that the stubborn roadblock is broken. We must hope that through this hard-won breach will flow energy and imagination to give us new and better solutions to our farm problems.

Sorta Pathetic, Isn't It?

DREW PEARSON Says:
Strange Things No Novelty On Capitol Hill; Solon And Small-Fry Rub Elbows On Senate Subway; Communism Is Dull Discourse To Drowsy Ears.

WASHINGTON.—Strange things happen in Congress, especially in these closing days. There are strange debates, strange people, strange sights.

On the Senate subway car the other day sat a Negro boy about eight. He seemed very small. But his eyes were big, as tourists, secretaries, senators piled onto the car. How he found himself down in the basement of the Capitol of the United States, riding on the little car largely reserved for senators, which connects the Capitol with the Senate office building, no one knew.

But he was there, wedged in beside Senator Ed Johnson of Colorado, a huge hulk of a man, with hands like hams, and massive shoulders developed from shoveling coal as a fireman on the Union Pacific.

The little Negro boy had no idea who was wedged in beside him as they had a pleasant ride together from the Capitol where laws are passed, through the basement to the Senate office building where laws are written.

ASLEEP OVER COMMUNISM

ASLEEP—Strange things happen in Congress.

A sleepy House of Representatives stenographer scribbled down testimony. A Capitol Hill policeman drowsed in a chair by the door. Congress Louis Graham of Pennsylvania presided. One lone member of his congressional committee — Congressman Ruth Thompson of Michigan, sat beside him.

They were listening to testimony proposing to outlaw the Communist party, and nobody seemed to care.

Judge Michael A. Musmanno of the Pennsylvania supreme court was testifying—on a subject which a few weeks later was to electrify Washington. But on that sleepy morning, only one spectator was in the hearing-room — Blair Taylor, former head of the Tolstoi Foundation.

Judge Musmanno was supporting the bill introduced by Congressman Martin Dies of Texas. Sometime before, Senator Margaret Chase Smith of Maine had also introduced a bill to outlaw the Communist party. But no one paid any more attention to it than they did to Dies' bill, nor to that of Congressman Francis Walter of Pennsylvania.

"It takes only one man to blow up a bridge, only one angler to sink a ship, only one monkey wrench to wreck a machine, only one bucket of sand to ruin a dynamo, only one Alger Hiss in striped pants to betray America into the hands of her enemies," drowsed Judge Musmanno to the sleepy stenographer, the bored cop, and the audience of one.

Chairman Graham complimented him on his testimony.

"I would like to ask you or the justice or someone where I could get a copy of the Daily Worker," piped up pleasant Congresswoman Thompson.

"I shall send you several copies," offered Justice Musmanno.

"Can you buy it on the news-stands?"
"Yes," said the judge. "They always have a synonym against my name. They call me Michael Musmanno, witch-hunter."

Miss Thompson told a story about a girl who worked on her staff, whose father subscribed to a Communist magazine, and she had fired the girl. Congressman Graham told how he had arrested a switchman before he could wreck a train in Beaver, Pa. There were other pleasant anecdotes. Judge Musmanno was thanked again and departed.

The bored stenographer had long since departed. So had the Capitol cop. The meeting on outlawing the Communist party was over. No one ever dreamed that it would be taken up as serious legislation.

Nobody dreamed it would be unanimously passed by the Senate. J. Edgar Hoover and Attorney General Brownell both were against it. Nobody dreamed it could have the White House and Justice Department in connivance trying to find a compromise way out.

But strange things happen in Congress.

STRANGE GOP RIVALRY

Yes strange things happen in Congress, strange debates, strange rows, strange rivalries. Charley Halleck, the majority leader, was driving the boys to vote for postal increases and postal pay—as one package. And he was driving hard.

"As we say back in Indiana," he warned, "this is it. You won't get another chance to vote on this bill."

But Charley this time was wrong. The House would not accept his neat little package — at that time—and the postal pay bill did come up again. When it did come up, Charlie was out in Wisconsin, fishing.

Leslie Arends of Illinois, the majority whip who took over for Halleck, tried to whip the boys into line with a speech prepared for him by the administration. But it fell on deaf ears. The mailmen and postal clerks were long over.

Restate Policy of Massive Retaliation In Attack

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—Deputy Undersecretary of State Robert Murphy restated today that U. S. military strategy still depends upon instant and massive retaliation in event of attack.

He reiterated this keystone of new American foreign policy in an address prepared for the Air Force Assn.

That group's board of directors Thursday called the administration's concept of massive retaliation so confusing that Communist nations "are unlikely to be deterred by it."

Murphy said "cold wars demand cold nerves." The United States will not be diverted by "small commotions," he said.

"If we have held our fire, if we have refused to bring our reserves of power to bear preemptively upon peripheral situations, it is because of our deliberate and calculated policies not fully to engage our strength so long as there is hope for a peaceful and reasonable settlement of the conflict that is engrossing too much of the energies and resources of the world," Murphy said.

Calendar of Meetings

The True Blue Workers Sunday school class of the McKinley Avenue Baptist church will have its annual family picnic Monday at 6 p. m. at Karel park.

There will be a special call meeting of George Hart Post 167, American Legion, at the Legion home tonight at 7:30. All members are urged to attend. Important business. Bob Hull, commander.

A tight-lidded cookie or candy tin makes an ideal storage receptacle for shoe-shining materials, if you have too little closet room. Keeps the smell in, and the clothes from being soiled.

breakfast with President Eisenhower and gave him a "farewell fill-in" on the legislative situation. A deadlock developed in a House-Senate conference committee this week over the refusal of Senate spokesmen to accept House-approved provisions to extend coverage to about 4 million self-employed professionals and farm operators.

The last major administration bill, except the Social Security measure, was cleared for the White House Thursday night when the Senate approved by voice vote an appropriation bill containing $2,781,499,816 in new money for the foreign aid program. The House approved it earlier by a vote of 188 to 77.

Three anti-subversives bills also were approved by one or both chambers and sent to the White House. These would stiffen laws curtailing the rights of Communists, strip convicted Communists of citizenship and allow the death penalty for peacetime spying.

Award Contract for Road Improvement

The awarding of a contract for road improvement in Gallatin county was made today by the state highway department in Springfield.

The road to be improved is F. H. route 17, from the Gallatin-Hardin county line 3 miles north-east of Karbers Ridge to Illinois 1. This 3.41 miles of road will have a bituminous surface treatment on a gravel or crushed stone base course.

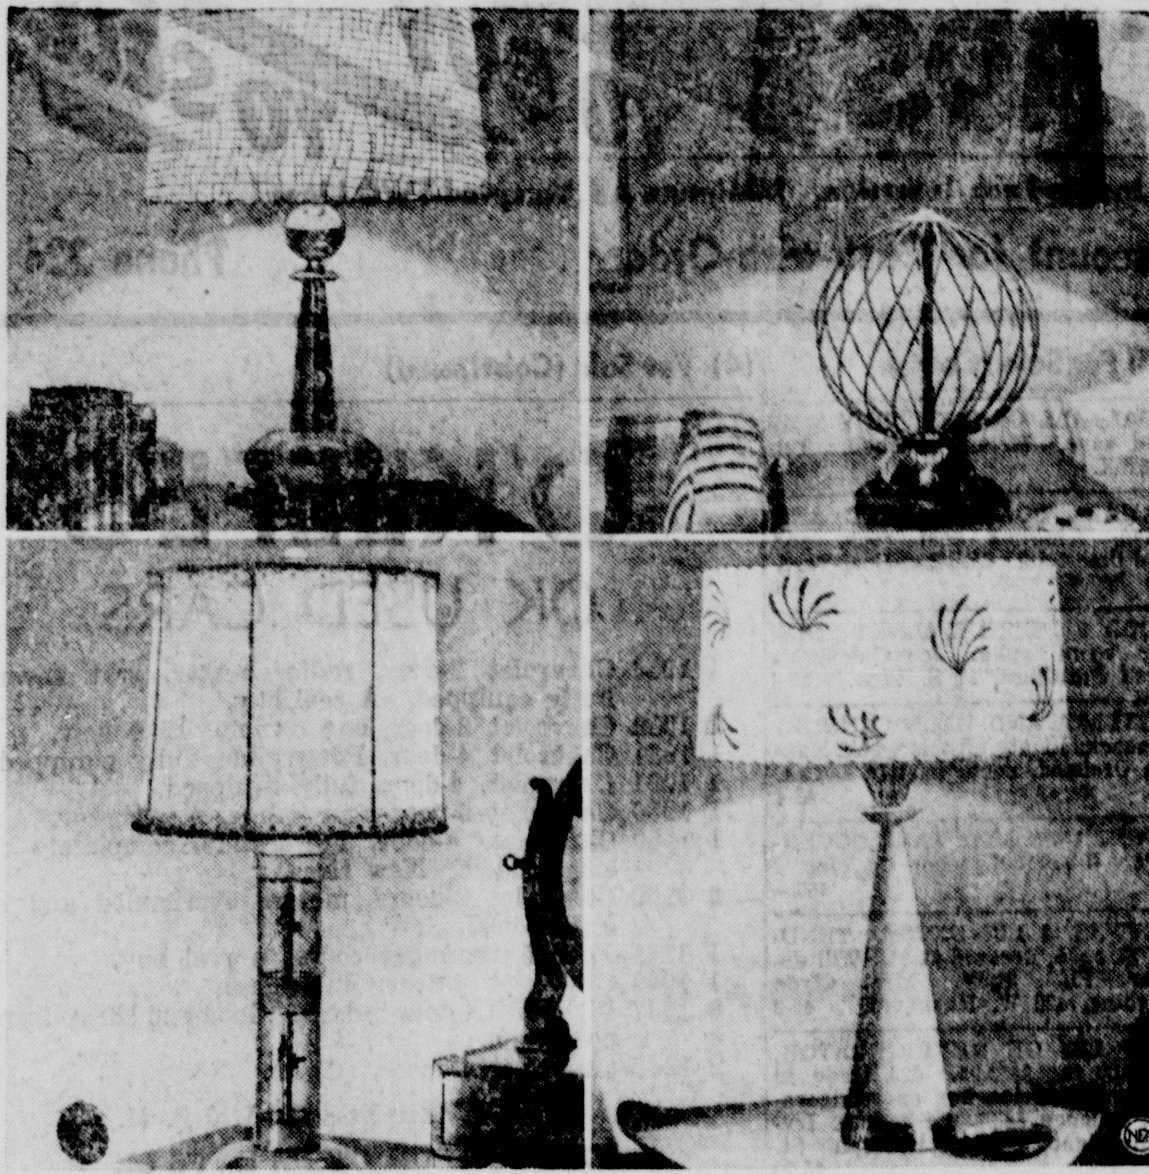

The successful bidder was the Dale Denny Construction Co. of Anna with a bid of $62,583.00.

Registration for
First, Fifth Grade

Registration for medical and dental examinations for all first and fifth grade pupils and all incoming students except those entering kindergarten will be held at the Harrisburg Junior high school Aug. 23, 24 and 25. Ethel Mathias, school nurse, announced today.

Electric blankets must be washed, as cleaning fluid used in dry cleaning damages insulating materials. Be sure to avoid twisting the blanket while washing it, as this may break fine wires.

Lamps Are in the Pink for Fall

Lamps in sparkling materials and ice cream colors are ready to enliven home decorative schemes for fall. We show here four that typify this trend. Sleek table lamp (upper left) of polished brass and blond wood has shade of ruffled fibers laminated between layers of transparent plastic. Size with no feeling of bulk is achieved (upper right) in modern table lamp that has large, open ball of swirling black wire enclosing polished brass shaft. Shade is nubby upholstery fabric. New bedroom lamp (lower left) combines frosted pink glass and clear crackle glass. Shade is white silk crepe trimmed with pink nylon. Fountain motif appears (lower right) in sleek ceramic cone with pastel base. White shade is sprayed with gold.

Social and Personal Items

Daughters of Ruth Class
Has Family Picnic

The Daughters of Ruth Sunday school class of the McKinley Baptist church held the regular meeting Thursday night with a family picnic at Karel park.

Thanks was offered by Charles Fulkerson. After the beautiful meal, the evening was spent in visitation.

Present were Mr. and Mrs. Carl Kuppert, Judy and Jimmy, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fulkerson, Mr. and Mrs. Houston Smith and Jimmy, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Penrod and family, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Hutchinson and family, Mr. and Mrs. Toby Pelhank and family, Mr. and Mrs. Herschel Pitts and grandchildren, Paula, Steve and Debra, Mrs. Ewell Winkelman, Linda, Rita, Marsha and David Ewell, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Fritts, Linda and Treva, Mrs. R. H. Davidson, Marilyn and Linda.

Mrs. John Vinson, 78, who resides at 204 South Mill, underwent an appendectomy Sunday at the Lightner hospital. She is doing nicely and is now able to receive visitors.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Keltner and daughters, Roberta Jane and Jeannine, are leaving Sunday for Rochester, Minn., where Mr. Keltner will undergo post operative examination, following surgery which took place earlier this year.

Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Arnold and son, Alan, from Lima, Ohio, are visiting with Mr. and Mrs. K. W. Kinnaman this week.

First Christian Junior Girls Hold Regular Social

The Junior Girls of the First Christian church met at the home of Elaine Parker, 317 East Logan, Thursday evening for the monthly class social.

A short business session was held, directed by the teacher, Mrs. Clarence Aldridge, after which a social hour was enjoyed.

Games were played and prizes won by Sue Roberts, Greta Aldridge and Penny Wise.

Members present were Linda Lavender, Carol Rutherford, Rose Leozsky, Elaine Parker, Penny Wise, and visitors, Sandra Kilburn, Sue Roberts and Greta Aldridge.

Elaine was assisted as hostess by her mother, Mrs. Gladys Parker, and her sister, Jeanette.

Rev. W. J. Milligan
Honored With Potluck
Supper at Karel Park

Friends and members of the Land Street Church of God met recently at Karel park for a potluck supper in honor of their pastor, Rev. W. J. Milligan, who is retiring from the ministry.

The church of God was Rev. Milligan's first church when he began pastoring 34 years ago, and by coincidence, his last.

Following the meal the children enjoyed the playground equipment while the adults visited.

Mrs. Arthur Kohrs of St. Louis is visiting in Harrisburg, called here by illness of her mother, Mrs. Ollie Hubbs, who fell sometime ago and broke her leg and is still confined to her home.

Mr. and Mrs. Dean White
Honored With Wedding Shower

A wedding shower was held recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Metcalf, 508 West Raymond, in honor of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Dean White from Muncie, Ind., who have been visiting here for the past week.

For entertainment Mr. and Mrs. White showed colored slides of their wedding and played recordings of the ceremony. Refreshments of sandwiches, cake and cold drinks were served to relatives and friends.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Howton and children, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Rains and children, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Angell, Mrs. Sadie Lambert, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Haffner and children, Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Metcalf and son, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Lambert and son, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Metcalf and children, Mr. and Mrs. James Howton and children, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Lambert, Mrs. Bill Tom Rees, Mrs. Raymond Joyner, Mrs. P. H. Barnes, Mrs. Alvin Ford, Miss Audrey Lambert, Waymond Haffner, Miss Sandra Howton, Miss Katherine Howton and Donald Gene Howton.

Several sent gifts who could not attend.

Penny Walker of Kincaid, granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Laure Foster, is in St. John's hospital in Springfield confined to the isolation ward with polio. Her condition is reported as somewhat better.

Eisenhower Leaves Question
Mark About Views Toward
Meek in State Fair Address

The President failed to make any mention of the Republican candidate for the U. S. Senate in his speech here Thursday.

He lunched with Meek, had pictures taken with him, and spoke from the platform where Meek sat.

But though Mr. Eisenhower spoke flatteringly of Gov. William G. Stratton, his host, and called for election of more Republicans to Congress, he made no mention of Meek.

There have been reports from the East that Mr. Eisenhower would not fight for Meek because he differed with Meek's political views, regarded by some as more "conservative" than the President's.

Mr. Eisenhower recently said he would like to welcome Meek as a freshman senator next January, seeming to scotch these rumors. But some eyebrows lifted after his speech Thursday.

Meek Sees Victory
Meek said jubilantly he was convinced the speech clinched his victory over Douglas next November.

"This is all we need for the campaign," Meek said of the President's Fairgrounds speech. "This makes victory certain."

In his speech the President lashed out at the "prophets of gloom" who expect an economic turnaround.

This was regarded as an attack on Meek's opponent, Sen. Paul H. Douglas, who said from the same platform only the day before that economic conditions aren't as rosy as pictured.

Mr. Eisenhower's strongest political plug came at the end of his extemporaneous address when he said:

"It Might Be a Good Thing" . . . I hope they will not consider it a belting speech if I should say that in view of the records this Congress has made in advancing those interests, in protecting those things and making sure we have steady, sound, prosperity widely shared, if I should suggest to you the possibility that it might be a good thing to increase the size of the delegation you send from Lincoln's party to Washington."

The President concluded by saying "some months ago I pledged a group with whom I was meeting that never again, as long as I was President, would I meet privately or publicly with anyone or make a statement for publication unless" he had "insisted and was assured I would have every bit of help I could in enacting that program to make America strong for you and for their children and ours."

Huge Crowd Grooms President

The crowd of 225,000 which thronged the Fairgrounds to see and hear the President was described by many as the largest in fair history.

Many thousands more lined the streets as the President motored from Capital Airport to Lincoln's Tomb, the governor's executive mansion, the Fairgrounds and back to the airport.

The "Republican Day" speaking program was one of the briefest in memory for a fair political day. State GOP Chairman Morton H. Hollingsworth introduced state officers and candidates and then Gov. William G. Stratton, who in turn introduced the President.

Stratton said the visit showed "Eisenhower is closer to the people than probably any other president."

"All along the parade route the people crowded into the street, shouting 'Hi Ike' and asking about Mamie—even little children did this," Stratton said.

Asked if he thought Eisenhower's visit would help the Republicans win the November election in Illinois, Stratton said there was "no question" about that.

Big Business Favored By GOP: Mitchell

for 25 years and gave most unusual tax benefits, thus virtually guaranteeing the syndicate a profit without risk.

"Both the AEC and the TVA objected to the deal, but the President ordered them to do it anyway."

Public Has Right to Know

"Does all this mean we are entering a period when the functions of agencies like TVA are going to be turned over to selected private firms without competitive bidding? Do we believe in free, competitive enterprise—or preference?"

"Some feel too, that since Dixon-Yates was an action of the President himself it shouldn't be questioned. I don't remember the public giving Harry Truman that kind of consideration when he was in the White House."

"Remember the famous mink coat? Why, this one contract is costing the taxpayers enough to buy 36,000 mink coats!"

"I'm glad the President has now decided to make the record of this case public. It's high time and our due. The public has a right to know about public business."

Mitchell stated that favoritism by Government to Big Business is more than unfair—it endangers our national economic health.

Declining Economy

Under the Democrats, Mitchell said, we had a steady expansion of jobs, of opportunity, of income, of standard of living—shared by everyone.

"Now, in contrast," he said, "We have a declining, or at best a stagnant economy. The farmers are making $4 billion a year less than they were in 1952, and now all the new Republican farm program has to offer is still lower prices and lower income."

"People who work for salaries and wages are making $8 billion a year, less than they were just eight months ago."

"We all know that coal is an industry that has been depressed for some time. So this is a region that is especially sensitive to any decline in economic activity and employment. Southern Illinois can not regain its prosperity unless there is a high and rising level of prosperity in the whole country. If business is expanding, then new industry will come here, but if business in the whole country is declining, or just holding its own, then the chances of new industry are far less."

Drift in World Affairs

Mitchell pointed to a dangerous drift of the last 19 months in world affairs. He said the strong fortress built by the Truman administration since World War II had been founded on the leadership of America, and the world now sees a sharp change in American leadership. He charged the Republicans reduced our military buildup in the very face of knowledge that the Soviets are continuing their under forced draft. It all points to a new kind of isolationism, Mitchell said.

Mitchell pointed to the disunity of the Republican leadership and in that disunity, he said, the Republicans have failed to put a check-rein on the reckless and irresponsible leaders in the Senate who have invaded the Executive Branch. "The symbol of these radical Republicans is, of course, McCarthy," he said.

"Another example is Joseph Meek. He's the man who has made a career of lobbying for special interests and who is now campaigning against Paul Douglas for U. S. Senator," Mitchell said.

Views oppose President's. He charged that Meek was against all legislation which gives labor any guarantee of its right to organize; he is against farm price supports, against any legislation dealing with small business, slum clearance, minimum wages or equal wages for women or prevention of discrimination against Negroes.

"All these things to him are socialism," Mitchell said. Everyone of these positions, Mitchell claimed, are in direct opposition to that of President Eisenhower.

"If the President has endorsed Meek even lukewarmly it raises a basic question of political integrity. Is the President really serious about his program? If so, why would he want to add one vote against him everytime he sends a measure to the Senate?"

"This is the Republican dilemma," Mitchell said, "if they purge themselves of the McCarthys and the Meeks, they probably can never remain a majority party. But if they keep the McCarthys and the Meeks, they can never lead and govern the country."

Mitchell urged the re-election of Sen. Paul Douglas and Kenneth J. Gray of West Frankfort as Representative from the 25th Congressional district.

He was introduced by Paul Powell, minority leader of the Illinois General Assembly and Representative from the 51st district.

The meeting was opened by Oard Sitter, State Central committee man and chairman of representatives were present and introduced from all counties in the district.

He introduced Steve Mitchell, Saline county Democratic chairman, who introduced the following county candidates: Maynard Cannon for treasurer, Raymond (Pete) Gardner for superintendent of schools, Wm. (Wee) Barrett for sheriff, Trafion Dennis for Judge and Don Garrison, candidate for re-election as county clerk.

Also introduced by Powell were Mrs. Maud Curry, county chairwoman, and Ed Merchant of Vienna, candidate for State senator.

Red Delegate Praises Plea By Eisenhower

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP)—An "Iron Curtain" delegate to the second assembly of the World Council of Churches joined other leading churchmen in praising President Eisenhower's call for prayers for peace.

The delegate, Dr. Joseph L. Homadka of Prague, Czechoslovakia, said Thursday night that Mr. Eisenhower's speech to the council "underlined that we have come together to find a lasting peace."

Mr. Eisenhower, climaxing a flying speech-making tour through Illinois, asked the Council delegates to invite every person in the world to join in a "mighty, simultaneous, intense act of faith."

"If this mass dedication launched an unending campaign for peace, supported constantly by prayer, I am certain wondrous results would ensue," he said.

The only questioning of Mr. Eisenhower's proposal came from one of the Council's most distinguished delegates, the Archbishop of Canterbury, Geoffrey F. Fisher, spiritual head of the Anglican Church.

Says It's Coming

The Archbishop said he thought such mass movements as the President proposed must come from the bottom upward, not from the top down.

"Such an upsurge must come from the laymen," he said. "But I think it is coming."

W. A. Visser 't Hooft, the World Council's general secretary, called Mr. Eisenhower's address "a very excellent speech."

"I think this Council would serve very well as a focal point for such an outpouring," he said.

Visser 't Hooft's assistant, Frederick Nolde, dean of the graduate school of the Lutheran Theological Seminary at Philadelphia, saw a "real need for a religious revival" such as Mr. Eisenhower proposed. One of the WCC's presidents, Marc Boegner of the French Reformed Church, commented "We heard with much feeling what he said for a just and lasting peace."

Emilie's Death Ruled Accidental

ST. AGATHE, Que. (AP)—Emilie Dionne's death was accidental and caused by asphyxiation during an epileptic seizure, a coroner's jury ruled Thursday night.

The six-man jury made its report after hearing testimony from Maurice Girouard, of Waterloo, brother-in-law of the girl, Sister Anne Marie Tardif, superior of the Oblate Sisters, religious order where Emilie was a postulant, and the director of the L'Accueil Gai, Cecile Belliveau.

An autopsy report read to the jury showed Emilie suffocated in a pillow after suffering one of a series of epileptic seizures.

White men first visited Nebraska in 1541.

Eisenhower Hits France, Italy Opposition to EDC; German Armament Needed

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said today that no measures to defend free Europe from Soviet aggression can be "fully effective" without a rearmament of Western Germany.

Mr. Eisenhower deplored the failure of France and Italy to ratify the European army plan which would bring West German military forces within its organization.

He said failure to ratify the plan poses a "serious" obstacle to the "adequate" defense of Western Europe.

At the same time, he reported that the military strength of the North Atlantic Treaty forces had been built up to the point where they "could not be overwhelmed by sudden surprise attack" in Europe.

Ready for an Attack

"An aggressive assault from the East could not be launched without extensive preparatory measures which would allow time for mobilization of defense forces in the European area," he said.

Mr. Eisenhower said the United States has poured more than 6 billion dollars into Western Europe for fighting equipment since 1949. This has helped to provide a better defense now than at any time since the end of World War II, he said.

But the President deplored French and Italian reluctance to ratify the European Defense Community treaty. He said "The latter deficiency constituted the most serious single obstacle to an adequate European defense posture."

Issues Foreign Aid Report

The President made the statements in a report to Congress on operations of the U. S. foreign aid program during the first six months of this year.

His criticism of the French and Italian stand came as the six EDC nations met at Brussels to act on the treaty. French Premier Pierre Mendes-France urged the other five nations to water down the plan but they rejected his proposal.

France has balked at the European army plan mainly because of fear of a revived German army. Italy, with both left and right wing parties critical of EDC, has not had a strong enough center government so far to ratify the plan which would rearm Germany as part of a six-nation army.

Cites Red Opposition

The foreign aid report said the intensity of Communist attacks on any move toward free world solidarity "is the surest proof of the worth and effectiveness of our mutual security measures."

It added that the foreign aid programs "have helped to bind the free world nations together in pursuit of the common goals of freedom and economic and social progress."

The report said the first six months of this year were marked by "important gains and important setbacks" in the mutual security effort. Among the setbacks listed were the Communist victories in Indochina and failure to win EDC ratification.

On the credit side, the report said "The NATO nations went steadily forward with their plans to defend the area against Soviet

Two Killed by Electrocutation From Storms

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—Thunderstorms hit south-central Illinois and scattered spots in southern Illinois Thursday night for the second night in a row.

Two deaths from electrocution resulted from Wednesday night's storm. Power and telephone linemen worked around the clock to make repairs on lines torn down by falling limbs in what was described here as the worst electrical storm in memory of power companies.

The dead were Joseph W. Huston, 46, Springfield, supervisor of research and statistics in the State Department of Finance; and Harold W. Crabtree, White Hall, a Central Illinois Public Service Co. lineman.

Huston was decapitated Thursday morning when he walked into a chin-high 4,000-volt line hanging over a bush as he went into the alley behind his home to dump trash. He had been with the Finance Department for 20 years and was in charge of estimating income figures against budget needs.

Crabtree was killed at Loomi, where he was working with a line crew Thursday night.

Thursday night's rainstorms dumped another 1.68 inches of rain on Decatur, which got 1.80 inches Wednesday night, and 1.26 inches on Springfield. Other Weather Bureau stations reported only light showers, except for Paducah, Ky., across from southernmost Illinois, which had 1.25 inches.

Buick's biggest hit brings you a 3-way bonus

1. You get the car that's in step with tomorrow

From stem to stern, Buick today is styled a year ahead—with long, low glamor lines, with the very look of tomorrow, and with that broad panoramic windshield that many other cars won't have till 1955. Equally important, you get in Buick advanced V8 power, big room, luxurious comfort, the famed Million Dollar Ride—and all for prices that start just a few dollars above those of the so-called "low-price three." Is it any wonder, then, that Buick today is outselling all other cars in America except two of these "low-price three"?

2. You get the car that's a sure high resale value

Buicks have always had a high trade-in value. But the 1954 Buick has an extra advantage in its year-ahead styling. That means your Buick will stay well up in the style parade for years to come—will stay fresh and new-looking well into the future. So you're bound to be way ahead in actual dollars when trade-in time comes.

Come see for yourself why—

3. You get a bigger allowance from our volume business

Every month's sales figures this year have firmed this fact: Buick sales are soaring; Buick is outselling all other cars in the nation, regardless of price range, except two of the "low-price three." So with this tremendous volume, we can—and do—offer higher trade-in allowances. Come in, see and drive a new Buick—then check for yourself that our volume business really does mean a far bigger allowance for you.

A's and Phils Keep Yanks And Giants in Business; Cardinals Beat Braves, 2-1

By CARL LUNDQUIST
United Press Sports Writer
As far as the Yankees are concerned, they hope the Athletics stay right in Philadelphia and keep right on playing the same brand of baseball.

And the Giants should be just as anxious to keep the Phillies around.

But it was a good question in Philadelphia today whether either the A's or Phils were worth saving and it was just as good a question in Kansas City, Minneapolis or any other city interested in a big league franchise, whether they were worth having.

Take the A's. They're keeping the Yankees in business in this still tense American league race. Thursday night the Yankees beat them, 8-5, for the 12th straight time and the 14th in 16 games this season. The victory, the Yankees' 10th straight, enabled the New Yorkers to cut Cleveland's lead to 2 1/2 games after the Indians split a double-header with Detroit, winning 4-3, then losing 8-2.

Giants Can Thank Phils
Take the Phils. If the Giants stay on top and win the flag they can thank Terry Moore's Red Quakers. Thursday, the Giants topped them for the 11th time in 13 games, and shut them out for the sixth time, 5-0, on Rugen Gomez' seven-hitter.

That kept the Giants two games ahead of the Dodgers, who had to go all out to beat the Pirates again, 7-5, while Madcap Milwaukee dropped to 5 1/2 games behind by losing a 2-1 decision to St. Louis in 10 innings. Cincinnati moved to within less than a percentage point of the befuddled fourth-place Phils by winning a pair from the Cubs, 7-0 and 6-3.

In other American league games, the White Sox handed the Orioles their ninth straight defeat, 4-3, to move within 8 1/2 games of the top and Boston made it three in a row long playing career. He won the title in 1936 with a resounding 388 and again in 1943 when his 328 was the best of only four over-300 marks.

Appling holds the record for the most games played by a major league shortstop. He appeared in 2,218.

In four years, from 1946 to 1949, although in his late 30s, Appling batted continuously over .300 while averaging 140 games per season.

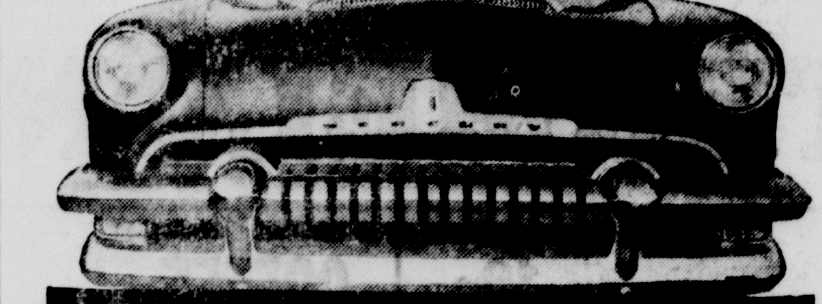

Lucius Benjamin Appling was born in High Point, N. C., April 2, 1909. He was a standout both in baseball and football while a teenager at Susquehanna University in Pennsylvania. In 1928, he made his professional baseball debut. After a couple of years with the Atlanta Crackers in the Southern Association, he was on his way to the big time.

He picked up the name "Aches and Pains" while rooming with the White Sox trainer. Appling claims that his roommate liked to warm up on him. Everytime his teammates came into the dressing room, he'd be on the rubbing table.

Appling also was well known around the league for his ability to foul off numerous balls. He often would foul a dozen pitches before getting one he liked.

Early this month, Appling returned to Chicago to take part in an all-time, all-star White Sox reunion. In a brief game before 45,000 fans, Appling looked like the Luke of old—he fouled off the first two pitches thrown to him.

Looking AT Sports

By BILL MELTON
Saw a tip-top football game last night—the Rose Bowl game of Jan. 1, 1954. Of course it was on film, but it was a football game. In fact I saw two.

Showing of movies featuring the Michigan State football team of last season was the highlight of last night's session of the 6th annual coaching clinic sponsored by Southern Illinois university.

The clinic got underway Thursday morning, there was also an afternoon meeting and then last night coaches, newspaper and radio representatives and others gathered at the Jackson County Country club for dinner and movies.

The Rose Bowl game, with Michigan State defeating the UCLA 28-20, was a beautiful piece of photography, showing football at its best. The narrator was "Biggie" Munn, head coach of Michigan State, who has resigned and been succeeded by Hugh D. Daugherty, who topped the list of speakers at the clinic. Daugherty, naturally, was really proud of the showing of the team and apparently is looking forward to another successful season for the Spartans.

Following the Rose Bowl showing, another movie, this one in black and white, was shown with Michigan State taking Ohio State in a Big Ten battle, 28-13. Leroy Bolden, Michigan State back, was outstanding in each game shown and Daugherty commented, "I wouldn't trade him for any other backfield man in the country."

Other speakers on the clinic, which continues through this afternoon, were Bill O'Brien, SIU football coach and Paul Moon, basketball coach at Davenport, Iowa, high school.

Well over a hundred were registered for the clinic, directed by Glenn "Abe" Martin of the SIU athletic staff.

Among the coaches I saw from this area were Lawrence Caluffetti, head coach at ITHS, Jim McKee, and Louie Beltz from the Harrisburg Junior high school. Johnny VanderPlum, who will coach at McLeansboro, was also there.

Eldorado had a three-man delegation, including head coach Al Adams, assistant coach Gene Haile and Osman "Red" Haile, who does a lot of officiating.

Ralph Davidson, who will head the Benton athletic program, and his assistant, Glen Truelove, were present. Talked with George Lubelt, formerly of Galatia, now at West Frankfort; Dick Lehr, ex-coach at Carrier Mills, now at Bridgeport, and Jack Archer, formerly at Thompsonville and now at Carterville.

Also talked with "Duster" Thomas and this is the year that Pinckneyville will take lots of knocks. Know it's true, "Duster" said so. With a straight face, he predicted that Pinckneyville will not be so strong and sees their home-court consecutive winning record, that now stands at half-hundred, being broken early in the season.

Of course Pinckneyville will have some bad seasons, but I know many coaches in these parts that would welcome being faced with Thomas' prospects for the 1954-55 season.

Al Adams tells me that Gene Barrett, veteran back and co-cap-

Olson Favored Over Castellani In Bout Tonight

Second Title Defense by Bobo Since Winning Crown

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Rocky Castellani, a cocky 13- underdog, gets a crack at the world's midweight crown tonight when he tangles with champion Carl (Bobo) Olson before 15,000 fans in the San Francisco Cow Palace.

The bout, slated for 15 rounds, was nearly called off Thursday when Olson's manager, Sid Flaherty, walked out of a state Athletic Commission hearing setting the weigh-in time.

A compromise finally was reached and the gladiators were to weigh in at 15 1/2 a. m. today. The commission originally set the weigh-in for noon and Flaherty stormed out of the meeting saying the fight was off. However, Al Nauman, Castellani's manager, soothed things over by agreeing to a 10 a. m. weigh-in.

Rumors have it that Olson is having trouble making the weight limit. It is believed that Flaherty wanted the extra time for his boy to regain strength before the fight after the necessity of drying out for the weigh-in.

The bout, second title defense for Olson since winning the crown nearly a year ago, has attracted wide interest and the crowd probably will put $200,000 into the till to witness the bout.

Another $75,000 will come from television. The local area will be blacked out, but a blow-by-blow account will be carried nationally including San Francisco, on radio. Both fighters are confident of victory.

"I expect to beat Castellani," says Olson. "I've trained hard and I expect to have to go the full 15 rounds."

Castellani, who will have no difficulty making the weight limit, is just as certain he'll annex the crown.

"I'll win by a decision," says Rocky. "I don't expect to knock him out."

Predicts KO By Rocky
However, Nauman predicts his boy will kayo Bobo. Flaherty says if there is a knockout, Olson will score it.

These two lads have two of the most impressive ring records in the fight game. Each has appeared in 62 fights; each has been beaten only five times, although Castellani also has a draw.

Olson, 26, has a string of 15 consecutive victories. His last defeat was at the hands of Sugar Ray Robinson in a title fight March 13, 1952 in this same city.

Castellani, 28, has won 10 in a row. His last loss was to Pierre Langlois on Feb. 6, 1953. He reversed that decision in June of the same year.

In their last bouts, Castellani won a decision from Pedro Gonzales on April 15 and Olson knocked out the same fighter July 7 in four rounds.

Hiker Considered Suicide While Trapped Deep in Grand Canyon

GRAND CANYON, Ariz. (AP)—A rescued hiker, who contemplated killing himself while trapped two rights and a day in a death trap deep in Grand Canyon, said today "I feel like I've been born again."

The hiker, Al Cane, 24, Los Angeles, said he became so hysterical that once he considered taking his own life by leaping from a ledge or plunging a pocket knife into his breast.

Cane was trapped in a water hole, a 10-foot wall of rock blocking his way on one side and a 50-foot ledge preventing escape on the other. He had dropped off the wall to the waterhole before he discovered he couldn't get out.

Cost of Living — Edges Upward

WASHINGTON (AP)—The cost of living edged up again in July, giving one million auto, aircraft, and farm equipment workers a cent an hour pay increase, the government reported today.

This was the third straight monthly rise in the Bureau of Labor Statistics consumer price index. The July increase of one-tenth of 1 per cent brought the index to the near record level of 152.2 per cent of average 1947-49 prices.

BLS Acting Commissioner Aryness Joy Wickens said the main factor in the increase was the summer drought that helped hike food prices seven-tenths of 1 per cent. However, this increase was largely offset by declines in new car prices and summer clothing, she said.

Gable Fading Away, London Paper Says

LONDON (AP)—London's tabloid Daily Sketch lamented today that Clark Gable "is fading away."

His kisses lack fire in his latest film, the paper said. His tread is heavy, his eyes dull and his manner weary.

The Sketch complained that in his new movie "Betrayed" Gable kisses Lana Turner "like a husband with a hangover."

Miss Turner, too, came in for a crisp warning from another paper. The Mirror, which said in its review of the same film that Lana "had better watch that figure."

"She's getting a little dumpty looking," the Mirror said.

Sister Eloise and Mother, Mrs. H. N. Jarvis, Receive Master's Degrees

Dr. and Mrs. H. N. Jarvis had as visitors in their home this week, their daughter, Sister Eloise, and her companion, Sister Ann Corita. Sister Eloise received the Master's degree from the Eastman School of Music in Rochester, N. Y., this August. It is coincidental that Mrs. Jarvis also received her Master's degree from SIU this month.

Sister Eloise has registered at the Eastman School for study toward the Doctor's degree in Music and will continue her work there next summer.

The sisters returned to Louisville, Ky., where they will resume their teaching. Sister Eloise teaches music at the Loretta high school, and Sister Ann Corita is principal of St. Benedict's grade school.

MARRYING SQUIRE—Lee Walker is shown among the many musical instruments and other items which add variety and humor to marriage ceremonies at the village of Emma. (Alta Porter Photo)

'Marrying Squire' of Village of Emma Puts Humor in Marriage Ceremonies

By ALTA PORTER

South of Carmi 12 miles and north of New Haven two miles is the village of Emma or Concord, in which resides Lee Walker, 69, "the marrying squire," whose wedding ceremonies are not the solemn affairs traditionally associated with nuptial vows.

Since much of the trade is from sportsmen fishing and camping along the Little Wabash, Mr. Walker always has on hand some amusing novelties to help them pass away the hours they spend in his place of business. A hula dancer, who gyrates from the waist down, when the light is burning, forms the pedestal for a light near the altar, which is immediately in front of the piano.

Numerous other gimmicks and humorous greetings occupy the boxes stacked near a dozen stringed instruments with which the one-man-band entertains himself and the trade between sales.

On Saturday night he goes all out to supply amusement, even to showing a free movie at the side of the building in the summer, and in an extra store room in the winter.

Canny if comical, is the wit of Mr. Walker, who made an investment of $20, in 1899, which has grown to include possession of the major portion of property in the village of Emma.

Novelty has taken the place of vacations with him, for throughout the years he has gleefully tickled the funny-bones of friends, and not many people come to Emma without making friends with Lee Walker.

While his hands play the piano, his feet on a lever, beat out the rhythm on the drum and with his tongue and teeth he plays the harmonica. Or, he may substitute the guitar for the piano if you wish.

He contends that couples stay married just as long without long faces and long solemn ceremony, and that only one of the hundreds of couples that he has wed have divorced. That was a preacher, Mr. Walker said, and he offered to do it over to make it stick, if the parson ever decides to take the plunge again into matrimony.

Himself, married only once, and a widower for several years, Mr. Walker claims his chances for remarrying were ruined by a newspaper. He said he was corresponding with several wealthy widows over in Indiana, when an Evansville reporter put his picture in the paper and blighted his marital hopes by making him look about three times bigger than he is.

Tancred smashed the heavy beer glass into Bleek's face. He followed instantly with his left into Bleek's stomach and was appalled by the muscular hardness of it. Yet Bleek reeled back. He wiped beer and blood from his face.

"All right, Bailey," he said. "But don't ask me to quit."

He sprang forward and threw his right fist at Tancred's head. Tancred rolled aside, lashed back. His fist connected but his body also encountered Bleek's left, a solid ramrod of sinew and bone.

Tancred staggered back and Bleek crowded forward. His right connected with Tancred's head, his left flailed into Tancred's stomach. A roaring filled Tancred's head and then Bleek's right exploded again on his jaw and the floor rushed up to Tancred. He fell to his knees and threw out both hands to brace himself. He remained there an instant—until Bleek kicked him savagely.

Bleek had meant it. It was to be a fight to the finish. Total unconsciousness would not stop it. Bleek would still kick in his ribs and batter his head.

Tancred dropped flat upon the floor, called on his reserves and rolled aside. Bleek's booted boot grazed the skin of his face and Tancred grabbed the foot and twisted hard. Bleek crashed to the floor.

He landed hard and for a moment the breath was knocked from him. He made his feet to find that Tancred was up and grabbing at a nearby chair. Bleek lunged forward. Tancred smashed the chair over Bleek's head. It shattered to splinters, and Bleek dropped to his knees.

Bleek came up streaming blood. His scalp was matted with blood but he still came at Tancred.

Tancred hit him, in the face, in the stomach. He hit him four times and Bleek hit him once and Tancred staggered back. He didn't fall and his back touched the bar. Bleek caught him there. He threw his arms about Tancred and put on pressure.

Bleek's grip grew tighter and Tancred could scarcely breathe. With a tremendous effort he got the heel of his left hand under Bleek's chin and forced it up an inch. He got his right hand under the chin and muscled it up another inch. Then he slipped his left hand down to get a firmer leverage and, holding the head up with his left hand alone, smashed his right hand into Bleek's already bloodied face.

It was a last-ditch effort. There was no breath left in his body, his lungs were threatening to collapse. He hit Bleek's nose, his eyes, his cheeks. Again and again, savagely. A groan came from the other man's lips. Tancred struck once more and Bleek let go. He reeled away, blinded in pain and for a long moment Tancred could not follow.

Air rushed into his tortured lungs. Then Bleek, by sheer instinct, lurched forward once more.

Tancred hit him. Bleek's stomach muscles had lost their rigidity. His fists sunk deep. Groans came from the bruiser. Bleek swayed but did not fall. Tancred smashed his face, over and over. Bleek's hands hung helplessly at his sides. His great body quivered.

Tancred stepped back. His fists weighed a ton each. He could not lift them to hit Bleek again. And Bleek was still on his feet.

Jacob Fugger stepped out of the crowd and took Bleek's arm. He turned him toward the door. And Bleek moved as Fugger led him out.

Tancred looked around a ring of quiet faces.

Lee Kinnaid's face appeared. "Where do you want to go?"

"Miller's shop."

Kinnaid took Tancred's arm and led him out of the saloon. On the sidewalk he saw that Tancred could walk alone and let go of his arm. But he went with him to the print shop and helped Tancred take off his coat and bloodied shirt. He whistled softly as he saw the bruises on Tancred's body.

"You're hurt."

Tancred nodded and dropped heavily to his cot, but only to a sitting position. Kinnaid found a bucket of cold water, a towel. With an effort Tancred raised himself to his feet and, soaking the towel in the bucket, sloshed his chest and stomach and arms.

Kinnaid watched and after a while he said, "That's the first fight Bleek ever lost."

"I don't feel like I won it."

"You didn't lose, so you won."

Kinnaid paused. "He'll be after you again. If he can't beat you with his fists he'll try another way."

"I suppose so."

"And Manny Harpending? You will have to fight him sooner or later."

Tancred dropped the soggy towel into the bucket of water. He exhaled wearily. "I've been thinking it was a mistake to come to Sage City."

"That's what I said, when I first came here."

"But you're leaving now."

Kinnaid hesitated, then shook his head. "That's what Fugger would like, but I'll stick around a spell."
